Practical Strategies for Access, Visibility, and Use of African Library Collections

Libraries and archives within the European Libraries in African Studies (ELIAS) network hold rich and diverse collections that are essential to African Studies research worldwide. Yet many of these materials—print, archival, audiovisual, and digital—remain underused due to challenges related to discoverability, access, description, and outreach.

The one-day ELIAS meeting aims to bring together librarians, archivists, and information professionals to exchange practical approaches to improving the visibility, accessibility, and active use of African Studies collections. The focus is on hands-on experiences, tools, workflows, and lessons learned, rather than theory-driven discussions.

By sharing concrete case studies from ELIAS institutions and beyond, the conference will strengthen professional collaboration and help participants translate shared challenges into actionable solutions.

The aim is to:

- Share practical methods for improving access to African Studies collections
- Explore ways to enhance discoverability through metadata, cataloguing, and digital platforms
- Discuss user-centred approaches to collection development and services
- Highlight successful digitisation and outreach projects
- Strengthen collaboration and knowledge exchange within the ELIAS network

If you would like to contribute we welcome the following formats:

- Individual papers or presentations (15–20 minutes)
- Roundtable (3-4 participants) or facilitated discussion

- Creative or practice-based presentations (e.g., exhibitions, digital projects, storytelling)

Proposals should include:

1. Title of presentation/session
2. Abstract (250–300 words) outlining the topic, approach, and relevance to the theme
3. Presentation format
4. Name(s), institutional affiliation(s), and short bio(s) (100 words max per presenter)
